

SWALLOW TAILS ARE VOGUE AT CAPITAL

Winter Brings Its Usual Display of Dignity in Sacred Halls of Congress.

SOME STYLISH SOLONS

Delaware Senator Seeking to Capture Laurels Dropped by L. Ham Lewis.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Congress is now adorned in all the national glory.

Summer and hot weather made fashion with the dignity of members of congress, for who can look dignified in a collar that is wilted or a cravat that when the thermometer is playing in more than two figures?

But with wintertime there comes the opportunity to dress in clothes designed for dignity's sake.

The first frost has come in Washington and more than one member of congress has been seen in a suit of gray, a white shirt and a white cravat.

Representative Tom Heflin of Alabama is the first to wear a "white cravat." It is said that the first of black cravats and white shirts was worn by a member of congress in 1890.

Another certain sign of cold weather is the "weekend" of "Uncle Joe" Cannon. During the summer "Uncle Joe" wears his vest and tie. But in fall he finds the vest back, but with only two buttons in action. Late fall finds four of the buttons in action and winter finds the entire group at work. It is now "give up" with "Uncle Joe's" vest buttons and winter is here.

In the senate since the departure of Senator James Hamilton Lewis there has been great rivalry for the senatorial honors which were held by that gentleman from Illinois. Senator Joseph W. Bailey of Delaware, with his pearl gray suit and his gardenia boutonniere, has been one of the most promising candidates for the honor. Senator David I. Walsh with a Fifth Avenue tailored garment that for fit and simplicity walks away with the honors. Senator Brandegee, dressed in a few pink and green shirts and then dropped out of the race.

The winter crop of great coats hasn't arrived yet, due to the emergency of Washington weather, but the boys are looking for some nobly stuff in overgarments when real cold weather comes.

INTEREST ON BONDS IS NOT COLLECTED

Many Purchasers of Liberty Securities Considered Purchase a Patriotic Duty.

DES MOINES, Nov. 1.—Perhaps $100,000 in interest on bonds and securities, most of them government issues, is estimated to be lying uncollected in safety deposit vaults in Des Moines. The estimate was made by a banker.

Not all of the money is due individuals, for banks and financial institutions in many parts of the state have sent their government bonds here for safe keeping and neglected to clip the interest coupons when due. One bank in the state in a small town has several 10,000 bonds here for safe keeping, and has never collected any of the interest, although to date it is said to amount to about $2,500.

A local bank recently was informed it had $1,800 due in interest. The bonds had been put away and overlooked for the time. One reason why the interest coupons are not being cashed by individuals is that many purchased the bonds as a patriotic duty, accepted the bonds something as they would a receipt, and then put them away, promptly forgetting about them as an "investment."

LEGION WILL URGE HEAVY PENALTIES FOR SLACKERS

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—In order to provide more drastic penalties than are now contemplated for alien slackers who withdrew their citizenship papers to escape the draft, a special committee appointed by the national executive committee of the American legion will recommend to the house committee on immigration and naturalization a more stringent amendment to the proposed Larkin bill, H. R. 9416, which has been introduced in congress with the support of the legion.

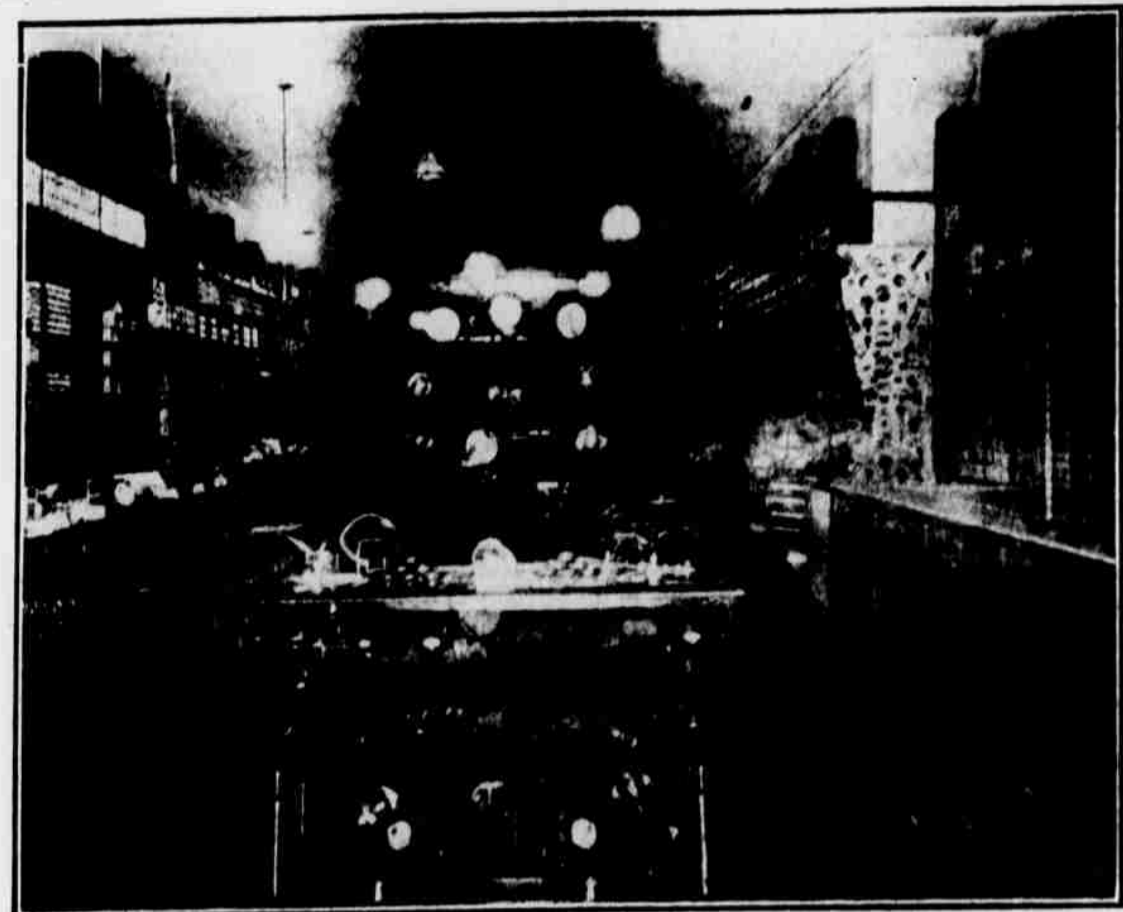

The first section of the bill provides that aliens who claimed exemption from military service of the United States on the grounds that they were citizens of other countries shall not be permitted to apply for citizenship or be admitted to citizenship for a period of five years. It is the opinion of the committee that alien slackers should be denied citizenship altogether, and it was the demand of the St. Louis caucus of the American legion that these persons be deported.

CHINA COMPETING WITH U. S. EGG TRADE IN ENGLAND

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Chinese eggs are coming more and more into competition with the American egg trade with the United Kingdom, according to United States department of agriculture reports on foreign markets.

The producing sections of China are upward of a thousand or two thousand miles inland from Shanghai. The eggs are brought down by slow river transit. Eggs that arrive in Canada last fall did not pass inspectors at a grade higher than seconds. Distance and other factors are in favor of American and Canadian exportation, but the Chinaman is declared a particular competitor in England.

TEACHING IDEAS WRONG, DECLARES WOMAN DOCTOR

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Dr. Wilfrid Lay of this city, in a recent address on "Reinterpretation of Childhood" before the international conference of women physicians, severely condemned present methods of child labor. She said, in part: "Education as it is now is at best a fangent root from the actual necessities of life. The syllabus used in instruction of children today throughout the country is essentially the same as that in use one or two centuries ago. Educators everywhere must bear in mind that the child is not an adult, either in physique or in mental build. The child is different from the adult. Its habits are different; its structure is different. No wonder that those who are trying to train the children as if they were adults are so poorly paid."

She: "No, Jack, I fear we could never be happy. You know, I always want my own way in everything."

He: "But, darling, you could go on wanting after we were married!"

Another Gold Field Found in Northern Alaskan Territory

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Nov. 1.—(By Mail)—Renewed life to the Portman district on Solomon creek appears to be promised as the result of the recent discovery of a new paystreak. Pans have averaged 42 cents in gold, it is said, and a number of plants are expected to mine in the district during the winter.

CATS ARE AT A PREMIUM DURING MOUSE INVASION

CONCORDIA, Kan., Nov. 1.—With the scarcity of mouse traps and rats the campaign to rid Concordia of mice has been a failure, and the invasion of the rodents is increasing in strength. Cats that are "guaranteed to catch mice" are wanted and the price, it is said, will average $1 each.

"OLD BEAN" AND "OLD THING" BANNED BY OXFORD

LONDON, Nov. 1.—"Old Bean" as a proper term of endearment is going, going, gone. Oxford has banned it. "Old Bean" and "old thing" were equally popular during the war in the highest provinces of the admiralty and the lowest junior officers' mess.

Now comes a new one, Oxford made. If the bright young idea refers to you to your face as "Old Bean," he means no disrespect.

For "Old Bean" means you're just all right.

Homelessness Cause of Enlistments.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Homelessness brings more men back into the military service than any other reason, according to officers who have questioned thousands of veterans who have been discharged and returned since the signing of the armistice. Recruiting tables show that nearly 70 per cent of present day enlistments are of men who have seen previous service.

HUMDRUM LIFE IS WORRYING HEROES

Ex-soldiers Weary of Doing Nothing. Advertise for Hazardous Employment.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—Some of the soldiers who served in the great war are finding the humdrum life of the civilian too monotonous to endure and are offering to risk their lives in campaigns anywhere or in any adventure to escape the tedium of office or shop life. An example is shown in the following advertisement which appeared in a London paper the other day:

"Young ex-soldier, three times wounded, will risk life for 200 pounds, tired of life and all alone, write," etc.

Inquiry disclosed that the advertiser was formerly a stretcher bearer in the royal army medical corps, who won the military medal at Mar-tinch and later at Ypres won a star in the medal. After his discharge, he obtained employment as a civilian clerk in the royal air force.

4,000 FREIGHT CARS FIND WAY BACK TO GERMANY

BRUSSELS, Nov. 1.—Belgium has lost 4,000 of the freight and passenger cars she received from Germany after the armistice according to the newspaper Nation.

In the course of traffic these cars found their way back to Germany, where the newspaper alleges, the Belgian labels were removed and the cars again became the property of the Germans. As a result, it is understood that no more cars from Germany will be allowed to re-cross the Belgian frontier.

One Bean Weighs 12 Pounds.

CARLISVILLE, Ill., Nov. 1.—Mrs. Mary Komoros is raising a better bean vine in her garden on which beans grow large enough to serve an entire family a meal. A single bean measures 2 1/2 inches in length and weighs more than 12 pounds. Its fruit is of the succulent, tasteful kind, says Mrs. Komoros. Besides, it helps surmount the high cost of living problem, she declares, as the beans are inexpensively raised.
